

DECKOS - PIGMENT AND PARADOX PRESENTS

MUTANT PIGS: SIGNALS ON THE ICE

CHAPTER ONE - THE DARKEST HERD

Before the WGS - Season One Illustrated Guide

At the end of their world, the Mutant Pigs heard a crowd.

During their darkest hour, they became the Darkest Herd.

Porcyn-9 is failing. The Iron Tusk Herd, Violet Snout Cooperative, and Ashback Families all move toward Basin Twelve, the last coolant reservoir capable of supporting their settlements. No community can maintain it alone, yet each believes possession is the only path to survival.

In Signal Station K-17, Mara Tusk hears a pattern inside dead static. Disgraced engineer Bram Bristle gives the pulse a machine capable of revealing it. Senior referee Solomon Sowell stands alone on the basin bridge with an obsolete whistle and no remaining rule that requires anyone to stop.

The signal contains no instructions and performs no rescue. For less than a second, it carries the sound of thousands drawing one breath together. That fragment will eventually show the Mutant Pigs another way to gather.

MP-009 - THE DARKEST HERD

The world, the division, and the listeners

MP-001

MP-002

MP-003

MP-004

MP-005

The march, the pulse, and the darkest hour

MP-006

MP-007

MP-008

MP-009